WHAT DOES THIS MEAN?

Current Due net of Authorized Financial Aid: This is the current amount you owe, minus (net) any Financial Aid you've been awarded. This could be a positive balance, or $0.00

Account Balance net of Authorized Financial Aid: This is the total account balance minus (net) any Financial Aid, including any overages. A Financial Aid Overage is when the awarded amount of Financial Aid exceeds your term balance. Your "Account Balance net of Authorized Financial Aid" could be reflected as a positive number, $0.00, or in some instances a negative number (outlined by parenthesis).

See the following example: In this case, the student's Financial Aid award was more than their term balance, resulting in an Overage. The Current Due net of Authorized Financial Aid is $0.00, because the student's cost is entirely covered by aid. The Account Balance net of Authorized Financial Aid is ($434.00), indicating the amount due back to the student – typically called a "disbursement".

$434.00 is what the student will receive as a "refund". These funds could be available in the bookstore to purchase books and supplies with. Anything not used will be sent to the student after the drop/add and no-show periods are over (about the 6th week of the semester).
